-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --

Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-6 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Takano et al. [US 6,606,018].

Claim 1, Takano et al. discloses an electromagnetic relay [figure 1] in which a moving contact plate [44] and fixed contact plates [40, 42] are juxtaposed with one another on a base, a moving iron plate [28] is rotated on the basis of magnetization/demagnetization of a coil block [32] put on said base to reciprocate a card [64] in a horizontal direction, and said moving contact plate is allowed to undergo elastic deformation so that a moving contact provided to said moving contact plate is brought into contact with and out of contact from fixed contacts provided to said fixed contact plates, wherein: each corner at the top of said moving contact plate is bent into an upper component and a lower component [figure 6] in such a fashion as to form card acceptance portions [80 and 82], and a distal end portion [64b] of said card is brought into direct contact with an inner surface of said card acceptance portions.

Claim 2, Takano et al. discloses the electromagnetic relay according to claim 1, wherein said card has a guide portion [the guidance projection on the center cut out of the card that contact the coil housing, figure 2] for guiding said card acceptance portions formed on said moving contact plate from both sides [figure 2].

Claim 3, Takano et al. discloses the electromagnetic relay according to claim 2, wherein said card has a reduced thickness portion [64b] guided by said card acceptance portions, and a rib [the cross member connecting both ends of 64b] reinforcing said reduced thickness portion guide said card acceptance portions [figure 1].

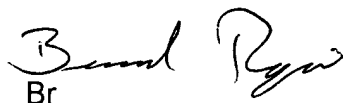

Claims 4, 5 and 6, Takano et al. discloses the electromagnetic relay according to claim 1, wherein said fixed contact plate is interposed between said moving contact plate and said coil block so that a bent portion at a distal end thereof is positioned above a push-in position of said moving contact plate, and said card acceptance portion of said moving contact plate has an escape portion for allowing insertion of said fixed contact plate [figure 2].

Conclusion

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Bernard Rojas whose telephone number is (571) 272-1998. The examiner can normally be reached on M-F 8-4:00), every other Friday off.
